representative concerning the issues of the matter. The EEO Counselor shall, insofar as is practicable, conduct the final interview with the complainant within twenty-one (21) calendar days of the complaint. The EEO Counselor shall advise the complainant in writing in the final interview of the complainant's right to file a formal complaint with the EEO Officer within fifteen (15) calendar days of the final interview if the matter has not been resolved to complainant's satisfaction. In attempting to resolve a complaint, every effort shall be made to resolve the complaint to the satisfaction of the complainant. In response to such notification, appropriate remedial action will be taken by the Director of DCRA or her designee of the employee found to have engaged in discrimination. Such conduct shall result in either disciplinary action (including a letter of admonition, a letter of reprimand, suspension, reduction in rank, grade or pay, or dismissal) or counseling or reassignment. The procedures set forth in Chapter 16 and Chapter 38 of the District Personnel Manual (DPM) will govern any action to be taken against any employee found to have engaged in discrimination.
- J. The EEO Officer shall establish and maintain a complaint file containing all documents and records pertinent to each EEO complaint. Reports addressing the EEO program will be submitted to the Director, EEO. Files related to EEO investigations shall be maintained in the strictest of confidence, in a secured location, for the length of time determinable by law. Accordingly, an employee alleging sexual harassment or a person acting on the alleged victim's behalf with or without the victim's consent may report a sexual harassment incident to an EEO Counselor, to any supervisor or manager within DCRA, or to an EEO Counselor at any other District of Columbia agency within 180 days from the time of the alleged incident.

- B. Alternatively, an employee alleging sexual harassment may file a complaint directly with the Office of Human Rights within one year of the alleged conduct; or, if the alleged conduct occurred on or after October 1, 2002, directly with a court of competent jurisdiction. However, although the Human Rights Act allows a complainant one year to file a sexual harassment complaint with the OHR, or with a court of competent jurisdiction, employees should be advised that their failure to timely follow the Agency's policies and procedures to complain about alleged harassment within 180 days may be unreasonable on the part of the employee, given the totality of the circumstances, and may be taken into account in assessing the credibility and merit of the complaint.
- C. In the event of an emergency complaint, the complaint may be submitted in writing and under confidential cover directly to the Director. The Director, or her designee, shall ensure the complaints of sexual harassment are promptly investigated and shall ensure that resolutions are attempted. The Director shall also act promptly, that is, within forty-eight hours of receipt of an emergency complaint, to take action as deemed appropriate to address the safety of the complainant. If so requested, the Director or her designee shall meet with the Complainant. The designated complaint investigators shall submit the written report with all findings, determinations, and recommendations to the Director under confidential cover. The Director and/or her designee will determine the appropriate response to the investigative findings. If the complaint cannot be resolved, the complaint shall be handled in accordance with the EEO procedures set out in this directive.

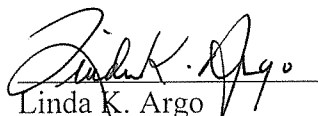

VIII. Appeal of EEO Officer's Findings, Final Decision

A resolution of each EEO complaint shall be attempted in accordance with procedures established herein. If the complaint is not resolved to the complainant's satisfaction, he or she may consult the Office of Human Rights directly concerning his or her complaint. The EEO Officer shall refer unresolved complaints to the Director, EEO within sixty (60) calendar days of the date of the EEO Officer's report to the Director, EEO.

IX. Penalties

DCRA shall impose stringent disciplinary action against persons found in violation of the sexual harassment policy. Department penalties for conduct in violation of this directive are established in the DPM, Chapter 16. Managers and supervisors who fail to report sexual harassment or fail to take appropriate action to resolve sexual harassment complaints shall be subject to disciplinary action pursuant to Chapter 38 of the DPM. Employees found to have intentionally filed false charges of sexual harassment shall be disciplined in accordance with Chapters 16 and 38 of the DPM.
